SALEM
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE)

SALEM, Oct. 28.—The agriculture and live stock train was here Monday morning for about two hours. Lectures were given on various subjects of interest to the agriculturist, and two cars contained an exhibit of live stock that was opened for observation and a lecture explaining their breeding and care. The coming of the train had not been very extensively advertised and but few farmers were in to obtain the benefit of these free lectures that is provided by the state and the railroad company jointly. It is not known who is responsible for the lack of publicity given this important feature of agriculture advancement, but if the local paper had been apprised of the fact so it could have been noted in last week's issue and a few posters put up, it would certainly have secured a larger attendance. One car was specially equipped for lecture for children of an appropriate grade of the public school and these were invited to the car for the lecture and exhibit.

W. W. Woods, industrial agent of the Baltimore and Ohio system was here Monday with the special agricultural train. Mr. Woods has always been interested in Salem's growth and advancement and has made previous visits here. "The people are very appreciative of what the Baltimore and Ohio has done for the city in improving their property and erecting the new depot and freight station."

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Galt, of Wheeling, passed through here Monday on their way to Akron, O., where they take their infant child to a specialist in spinal disease.

Miss Ruth Kemper, the child violinist, will give a recital at the college auditorium Tuesday night assisted by Miss Marion R. Boyd, of the college music department and Mrs. T. F. Kemper, reader. Miss Kemper will early return to Toronto, Can., to resume her studies in further violin training.

Mrs. Fannie Hickman, of Louisiana, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jehu Salder.

The Modern and the Co-Operative window glass factories started Monday morning making glass with a full staff of fire, and that the present prices of glass and labor will continue throughout the year.

Better Have Insurance and Not It, Than to Need Insurance and Not Have It.

There would be more people protected with a standard old line insurance policy on their homes and household effects than there are if the public generally would only stop to think how cheap fire insurance really is.

If your house or household goods is an average risk and is not closer than twenty-five feet from another house you can carry one thousand dollars on your property for three years for the small sum of $10

I represent some of the strongest old line insurance companies in the world. Among them are the following companies:

PHOENIX ASSURANCE CO., of London.

CITIZENS FIRE INSURANCE CO., of Baltimore, Md.

THE MINNESOTA UNDERWRITERS OF THE ST. PAUL FIRE AND MARINE

All of which are "top notchers" in their line and you had just as well have the very best as one that is called "just as good."

Phone me and let's talk the matter over.
